

Council split on zoning/gaming resolution

BY TRACI BONNEY

To the delight of many and horror of some, the Bay St. Louis city council approved a resolution Tuesday that accepts the recommendations of city gaming study consultants.

The approval came on a split vote over a resolution written by city gaming attorney Donald Rafferty. His resolution contains four points:

1. That the City of Bay St. Louis accept and approve the dockside gaming study done by Buckhurst Fish Hutton Katz Inc. and Economics Research Associates;

2. That the City notify the Secretary of State, the State Gaming Commission and all other interested regulatory agencies that the City does not object to a gaming development at the Bay bridge site and that any previous requests by the city to delay issuance of gaming permits, or licenses for that site be immediately withdrawn;

3. That the dockside gaming study be referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission for review;

4. That the Planning and Zoning Commission be requested to make recommendations to the city council on two zoning amendments proposed last December but tabled until the gaming study could be completed.

Several items in Rafferty's resolution, presented to the council for the first time Tuesday night, upset council members Jim Thriffley and Charles Scianna.

Scianna's concern centered around the two proposed zoning amendments, which would give

Amendment fails to include word 'afloat'

A matter of concern at Tuesday's Bay St. Louis city council meeting is a voice from the past.

City attorney Donald Rafferty included in a resolution that the council approved on a 3-2 split a "whereas" concerning two zoning amendments that had been proposed last year but tabled pending completion of a gaming feasibility study. Rafferty's resolution calls for the amendment to be considered once again by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

One amendment would permit in commercial zones "piers, docks, marinas and all activities permitted and authorized by the city the authority to extend zoning underneath the Mississippi Sound to their city limit line (which is also the county line) and would list as a permitted use in certain commercial zones "piers, docks, marinas and all activities permitted and authorized by the Mississippi Gaming Control Act of 1990, together with all amendments and revisions thereof."

He said that if the council approved the resolution as written, he believed the council would be suggesting to the Planning and Zoning Commission that they recommend the zoning of dockside gambling in all commercial areas where gambling would be permitted by law.

Another concern of his, and a matter which highly upset Thriffley, dealt with the acceptance and approval of the gaming study consultants' recommendations. Both men said they felt that the council should not accept the recommendations until after a meeting scheduled for tonight, in which the council, consultant Jules Lagarde and the Planning and Zoning Commission were planning to discuss the study.

When John Wilkerson moved and Thomas Farve seconded the motion to accept Rafferty's resolution, Thriffley moved to table the motion. He stated, "I want to go on record and say

Donald Dorn retires as Waveland police chief

BY TRACI BONNEY

From two people, an auxiliary unit and a one-room office, the Waveland Police Department has grown over the last 25 years, and Donald Dorn has seen the whole thing.

Dorn, who is retiring at the end of this year after 25 years as a Waveland lawman, watched the department grow from its beginnings to a company of 16 personnel, 12 vehicles, four full-time dispatchers and one relief, and a separate office building.

In 1967, he was appointed assistant marshal when Waveland was still a town. At that time, he had two years of experience as an auxiliary patrolman.

"We formed an auxiliary unit in 1965 with seven men. We used to go out after we got off work at our regular jobs, and patrol in our own cars, with CBs, from 7 to 11 on week-nights, longer on weekends."

In 1974, the town became a city—it had grown to the 2,500 population needed to incorporate—and appointed Dorn the first police chief. Back then, Dorn and his staff of one operated out of a room at the tax collector's office.

The police department grew gradually, and eventually moved to a room at the fire house. Over the years, the department obtained a radio, hired a dispatcher, and got its first car with a grant.

About five years ago, the police department moved to its new headquarters on Hwy. 90. Now, Dorn has command of a staff that includes investiga-

Hancock approves amended budget

BY JANET MCQUEEN

The Hancock County School Board approved an amended '91-92 budget of $12.2 million, an increase of nearly $750,000 over the original budget accepted in September.

"The district is in good shape financially," Superintendent Terrell Randolph told board members. "Beginning in January, we will have $303,000 not obligated."

Increases in income were reflected in greater anticipated ad valorem payments, minimum program funding allocation and 16th Section land revenues, while additional expenditures included buses, salaries and equipment.

The solvent condition was announced following the news that the district may not see the restoration of $158,000 state funding cut by the legislature in June.

Following the budget cuts, school districts were allowed to secure low interest loans from the State Department of Education, to be repaid by June 1992.

Hancock qualified for a $1.3 million loan, which has been invested and is earning 6% interest. To date, the district has had to use $400,000 of the money, which will be repaid when ad valorem taxes are remitted in January.

"By June, we should earn $5,000 in interest after the loan is repaid," said Randolph.

City, Bay Cove reach agreement

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis city council unanimously approved a resolution accepting a proposed pre-annexation agreement between Lambert Land Co. and the city Tuesday night.

The resolution's adoption came during the regular council meeting, which followed a workshop Monday night that dealt primarily with the agreement's terms.

At the Monday meeting, city council members, attorney John Scaife, Mayor Edward Favre, Charles Lambert, Bay Cove Harbour official Len Krick and attorney Terese Wiley discussed the proposed agreement.

The 10 discussed changes in the agreement, proposed the addition of a few items, and went over alterations in Lambert's proposed land use plan for Bay Cove Marina Village, a destination resort with gambling facility that Lambert

Special recognition was given at the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139 Christmas party to members who were former prisoners of war. Among those honored were, from left, Emile Piazza, German POW; Frank Trapani, German POW; Lloyd J. Delahorne, Japanese POW; and Louis Guillory, German POW. Other post members not in attendance were J.C. Baxter and Sidney Snow, both Japanese POWs. The six were given lifetime memberships in the American Legion. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

New child care program at Hancock operational

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Hancock High School Vo-Tech Center's child care center is looking for pre-school students. The new program is operational, said Vo-Tech director Al Bourgeois, and currently has five three- and four-year-olds. The Hancock County School Board approved the hiring of Suzanne Lossett as child care aide at their Tuesday night meeting.

Reporting on the progress of the center, Bourgeois told board members $5,000 of equipment had been purchased, which will be reimbursed by state funds.

"The last phase of setup is underway. A fence for our playground equipment has been ordered, which is the final step," said Bourgeois. "Now we need to bring in some more children."

The center is equipped to handle up to 15 children on a daily basis, from 7:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Lunch and snacks are provided. Tuition is $35 per week or $140 per month. Registered "drop-ins" are accepted, according to Bourgeois, who may be reached at 467-3568.

A state mandated child care curriculum is used, said Bourgeois, who noted the juniors and seniors enrolled in the course are receiving hands-on experience.

The pre-schoolers presently attending the center are children of district employees, but the program will be opened to the public, said Bourgeois.

In other business, the board:

—approved the resignations of special education teacher Margie Woods and Mary Oglesbee;

—approved the hiring of April Strief as secondary education teacher at Hancock High School, Robert Davis as substitute teacher at Gulfview Elementary, bus drivers Helen Blackwell, Ruby Ladner, Carlos Shiyou, Robbie Burge and Allen Landry;

—approved the employment Sverdrup employees as physics teachers including John the Mississippi Gaming Control Act of 1990, together with all amendments and revisions thereof.

In January at a Planning and Zoning Commission public hearing, commission director Dave Reynolds suggested that the word "afloat" be inserted after "authorized" in the amendment in order to allay fears that should the state ever allow landbased casinos, the city would also be obligated to do so. With "afloat" in the amendment, the city would be able to restrict casinos to the water.

In Rafferty's resolution, the amendment does not include the word "afloat." Mayor Edward Favre said this is because the city council originally approved the wording without "afloat" in it, and therefore will not now ask the commission to consider a differently worded amendment. He said the commission may still recommend the wording change, however.

Friends of Bay St. Louis member Fred Wagner remarked of the amendment, "It opens up opportunities for landside gambling in all commercial zones, should the state ever change. But worse than that, it opens it up to sites other than the Bay bridge site, and that directly contradicts the gaming consultants' study, when the mayor pledged to honor the recommendations of that study."

that I am appalled and disappointed. This has never happened to me in the 15 years I've been here, that I've sat on this board."

Favre pointed out that the motion first on the floor had preference, but chairman Jim Rutherford said he would accept Thrifley's motion.

Rutherford, Wilkerson and Favre then defeated the motion to table the first motion, and followed that action with a vote in favor of adopting the motion Rafferty had written.

Following the 3-2 adoption of Rafferty's motion, the majority of the audience (mostly pro-gambling supporters) applauded the council.

Fred Wagner, a member of Friends of Bay St. Louis, commented that the council's action was "an unfortunate exercise in political control."

"The action concerning the resolution was a flagrant violation of the intent of the laws concerning public input, which were written to give the public a chance to make themselves heard on this matter."

Hewes announces candidacy for Fifth District seat

Billy Hewes of Gulfport announced his bid for the office of Congressman, Fifth District, Tuesday at the Mississippi Power Company auditorium in Bay St. Louis.

Hewes, a Republican, is the owner of Billy Hewes' Real Estate in Orange Grove and is the co-owner of Billy Hewes Insurance Agency with his son, Billy Hewes III, who was elected to the Mississippi Senate.

He and his family owned and operated the Hewes Brothers

Department Store in Gulfport where he was the president and general manager from 1969 to 1978.

In making the announcement, Billy Hewes said that his theme will be "He's One of Us" and that his primary goal is for more and better paying jobs for our people.

"I'm proud to be a native of Mississippi and to have worked alongside my fellow Mississippians to build a better state," he said. "I believe that taking pride in what we do well is one thing that sets us apart from the rest of the United States and is the key to greater job opportunities right here at home."

"We have the work ethic and the drive. We are blessed with an excellent climate for tourism and a geographically strategic location to serve as the transportation and distribution center in the Mid-South. We don't need to create an 'image.' We need to show what we're really like. What our area has to offer and how we can get the job done. It all adds up to more and better paying jobs which will be my number one priority as Fifth District Congressman."

Hewes is a Gulfport native, the son of Janie Krice Hewes and the late Chancery Judge

Billy Hewes

William G. Hewes. He attended Notre Dame High School in Biloxi and graduated from Gulfport High School in 1956. He was president of both his junior and senior classes at the University of Southern Mississippi, where he graduated with a bachelor of science degree in personnel management.

He attained the rank of captain in the U.S. Army Reserve where he served eight years as a Transportation Corps officer.

Hewes was Gulfport's "Outstanding Young Man" in 1974. He has served as president of the Gulfport Jaycees, the Mis-issippi Retail Merchants Association and the Orange Grove Youth Association and as vice president of the Gulfport Area Chamber of Commerce. He is now a member of the board of directors of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chamber of Commerce.

He also served as treasurer and finance committee chairman of the Harrison County Development Commission and is currently serving on the board of trustees of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College.

Hewes and his wife, Sarah, have been married for 30 years and have three children, Billy III, Charles, and Michael and have three granddaughters. He attends St. Joseph Catholic Church and is a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Local school districts feel effect of fund cuts

BY TRACI BONNEY

Governor-elect Kirk Fordice's announcement last week concerning education funds is disappointing, but not devastating, to local school district administrators.

Fordice said last Thursday that minimum program fund reductions made during the summer will not be restored by the 1992 legislature.

Bay St. Louis-Waveland Superintendent Robert Magee, whose district lost approximately $124,000 in expected minimum program monies, commented, "We already adjusted this year's budget to take care of the deficit. We're just simply going to survive."

Hancock County Superintendent Terrell Randolph stated, "We would like to have had the money restored because we have had to dig deeper into our budget and cut out some things. We already had to cut into supplies and cut out positions. We haven't been able to restore those and won't be able to unless the cuts are restored."

"We're not in a deficit situation, but we cannot cut anything more."

The Hancock County school district lost $158,000 in minimum program funds in the June reduction.

Concerning possible future reductions, Magee remarked, "Hopefully there'll be no future cuts and we'll be able to carry on next year."

Randolph said, "Further cuts will be detrimental to the district. Local governments will probably have to increase taxes if more reductions occur."

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

If you haven't gotten your Christmas shopping completed, time is running out. You have only a few days left.

In talking to some folks, it is my understanding that certain gifts, especially certain toys, are becoming very hard to find.

I know it can be disappointing not to be able to find a certain gift. It seems that every year there is some item which is almost impossible to find. So, if you are a late shopper, good luck.

I was talking to Sammy Perniciaro Jr. a few days ago, and he was telling me that his father is doing well. As many of you know, Sam had throat cancer surgery in Texas awhile back.

Sam is at home and welcomes visitors, and as many of you know, he has many friends, and it would make him feel very good if you would pay him a visit at home. I am glad that Sam is doing well.

The Gulf Coast Sportsman's Club will hold a Christmas Dance on Saturday at the Hancock County Civic Center, Longfellow Road.

The dance is to begin at 9 p.m. with music by Danny & Bennie. Tickets are $20 per couple and are available at Sam's Auto & Wrecker Service or at the door.

The Sportsman's Club brings the Kids Fishing Rodeo to the area during the summer. Proceeds from this dance will be used to help defray some of the expenses of the rodeo.

I know there are many youngsters who look forward to the annual Kids Fishing Rodeo put on by the Sportsman's Club.

The Hancock County Humane Society, according to Thyla Rogers, secretary, will be offering free pet food for needy dogs and cats on Saturday.

The Humane Society will be giving out bags of chow from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the organization's flea market at Hwy. 90 and Drinkwater in Bay St. Louis.

Rogers asks that the "truly needy" apply for this free pet food, as the organization would like for every animal to have a full belly during this holy week.

On Saturday, Santa will visit the Diamondhead Plaza Shopping Center at noon and be on hand until 5 p.m. at the Fire Station, and photos with the Jolly Old Saint Nick will be available.

The Diamondhead Rotary Club is sponsoring the photos with Santa.

Trolley rides, courtesy of Hancock Bank, will run between 1 and 3 p.m. from the Shopping Center to the Country Club, where visitors can view the many Gingerbread Houses on display.

The Diamondhead Community Center will also feature the Newcomers Club's decorations.

The judging of the Gingerbread House contest will be Sunday at the Diamondhead Country Club and winners will be announced during the special Christmas brunch.

Proceeds from the Gingerbread Houses will go toward the Marine Corps Toys for Tots program.

Educational fund switching, no money to replace in '92

The most shameful legacy of the Mabus Administration, with the complicity of the 1991 Legislature, was the budgetary shell game played with $30.8 million of funds for the state's minimum education program.

That's how much the Legislature in April snatched from the FY 92 public school minimum foundation budget and put back into the FY 91 education budget to cover funds cut because of revenue shortfall. The maneuver made it appear on paper that the lawmakers had balanced the 92 FY state budget.

All this was done, it must be emphasized, with the complete knowledge and approval of Gov. Ray Mabus. At the time, Mabus sloughed it off as no big deal, assuring school folks that the $30.8 million would be restored in January 1992 after his reelection.

Legislators went along with the same scenario, letting educators believe that after the new fiscal year started and tax collections got better, they would make up the shortage in the minimum foundation fund with a deficit appropriation.

Now the world has changed in the meantime. First, Mabus is not going to be around in January to fulfill his promise to the school people. Second, legislative fiscal leaders say that there isn't enough money in the state's cash register now to put back the $31 million.

Some legislators are even saying that they don't remember making any promise to restore the school money.

On top of all this, Gov. Elect Kirk Fordice told a group of school superintendents last week that he would not honor the commitment of the Mabus Administration to restore the funds to the state's 154 school districts.

Taking a hard line, Fordice said it was no way to govern to shift one year's fiscal obligation over to another year.

Caught in the middle of this political fiasco are Mississippi's 502,000 public school students and 30,000 teachers. Is it going to be recorded in state history that the Legislature and Ray Mabus tricked them out of $31 million and "balanced" the state budget on the backs of school kids?

All around the state last week, public school authorities were hitting the panic button as they envisioned the damage that would be done to their education programs before the school year's out if the $31 million is not forthcoming from the state.

Already dozens of school districts are experiencing deficits from the cuts in state funds made last fiscal year during the revenue shortfall, and some have had to ask for local tax increases. All had budgeted their share of the $31 million for this year.

School superintendents and teachers were preparing to hit the warpath even before the

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Results of statewide survey on Mississippi business issues

A recent statewide business poll, commissioned by the Mississippi Economic Council, shows widespread support for the passage of pro-business legislation during the 1992 session of the Mississippi Legislature.

1. Many Mississippi businesses are being forced to stop producing products and services because the costs of liability lawsuits are too high.

67% Agree—13.5% Disagree

2. Excessive court awards in business lawsuits are a major cause of increased prices to consumers.

68% Agree—15.5% Disagree

3. Mississippi should change the law so that punitive damages, which are awarded on top of other damages to punish defendants, are awarded only when the defendant's behavior showed obvious disregard for the safety of others.

73% Agree—12% Disagree

4. We need more businesslike management of government in Mississippi. State and local government should make better use of present tax dollars before any tax increase is considered.

93% Agree—4% Disagree

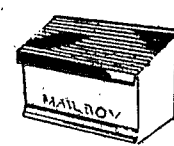

5. Government is growing at an alarming rate in Mississippi. We should consolidate or merge functions in state and local governments to eliminate duplication and improve efficiency.

79% Agree—14% Disagree

6. With safeguards to prevent abuse, the people of Mississippi should have the right to initiate laws and constitutional amendments.

81% Agree—10% Disagree

"Boy" Chagnard will really be missed by many

Dear Editor,

Coleman Avenue will never be the same with the passing of Adrian "Boy" Chagnard.

"Boy" walked once, twice and sometimes three times a day down Coleman Avenue waving, smiling and spreading his general good cheer to all he met or visited.

He had lived in Waveland over 40 years and had many, many friends who loved and respected him.

"Boy" Chagnard will definitely be sadly missed!

NASA's smoking policy is ineffective at Stennis

Dear Editor:

An article entitled Passive Smoking and Heart Disease published in the journal of the American Heart Association, Circulation, Vol. 83, No. 1, January 1991, concludes that "passive smoking is the third leading preventable cause of death in the United States today, behind active smoking and alcohol."

I am in favor of a total ban on smoking inside NASA-controlled buildings at Stennis Space Center. My wife works in NASA's main building (Building 1100). I am concerned about the hazards to her health from Environmental Tobacco Smoke (ETS) inside the building.

NASA's current policy allows smoking in designated areas. This policy is ineffective in a building where everyone ultimately shares the same air.

If NASA is concerned about the atmospheric effects of Advanced Solid Rocket Motor (ASRM) testing, it should be equally concerned about the quality of air inside its own building. If NASA promotes wellness classes in conjunction with National Heart Month, it should also put a stop to ETS in Building 1100.

The Hancock Bank branch office in Building 1100 switched to a no-smoking policy for its employees. The Naval Oceanographic Office across the street provides a smoke-free work environment for its employees. It's time for NASA to do the same.

Sincerely,
Eric B. Nye

Animal Shelter director commended for improvements

Dear Editor:

Congratulations to Nancy Gallager and the staff of the Waveland Animal Shelter for their successful Christmas bazaar held at Bay High School.

Many of their free hours were spent to bring this event off so well. It is good to see the shelter personnel doing fund raising to get necessary equipment rather than going to the taxpayers.

We also express our happiness for the dramatic improvement in animal care, cleanliness and public relations that exists at the shelter since Nancy took over the management.

Many people visit and phone the animal shelter with problems that are beyond the scope of the shelter to solve, and in order to help as many animals in need as possible, Nancy stays in daily communication with the Humane Society.

For this we are very grateful. And, dear Editor, the Sea Coast Echo is the Hancock animals' best friend, for without your constant support, no one would know of our attempts to do good things. You are our voice and the voice of the many charities of our county, and we sincerely thank you.

Travel precautions a must in state

Throughout the holiday season, Mississippians are blessed with large family gatherings, visits with friends and celebrations that mark this special time of the year.

We look forward to giving thanks, giving gifts and, most importantly, giving of ourselves as we observe the holidays.

This is a period of good cheer and closeness with those whom we love. It is also a time when we think back over the past 12 months, counting our good fortunes and creating new goals for the future.

It is also a season to travel. While most of us do not have to drive long distances to be with loved ones, some of us will be taking to the roads over the next few weeks.

For those traveling the highways of Mississippi, I have this reminder: Please drive safely and use safety belts at all times.

In Mississippi, it's against the law if you fail to buckle up. Our safety belt law says that everyone in the front seat is required, by law, to wear safety belts.

This law has already made our state's highways a much safer place for drivers and their passengers. By wearing your safety belt, you can reduce the risk of serious injury or death by one-half in the event of an accident.

Wearing a safety belt is also an economic issue. When we save lives, we also save money in insurance costs and health care.

Another matter that is worth mentioning is that we currently have strong laws that deal with child restraint seats in automobiles. What that means is that any child under the age of two must be seated in an approved child restraint device. If you're caught driving without having the child in an approved child restraint device, you will be fined $25.

One final thing to remember, do not drive under the influence of alcohol or drugs. Even though this is a time for celebrations, by mixing drinking or drug use and driving, you might be heading toward a tragedy.

Let's make this holiday season safe on our state's highways by observing our laws and using common sense. By doing so, we will all be able to look forward to a happy and prosperous 1992.

tors, patrolmen, dispatchers, a court clerk and an assistant. The office has a court room, two holding rooms for interrogations, computers for the court clerks and investigators, and a computer for assistant chief Sandra Henley.

Other things have changed, too, Dorn said. "Now, an officer has to go through training, and go to school to keep up with the newest techniques. Not like when I started, when they just put you on the streets and you learned that way.

"Forms, tickets, reporting, all those are uniform throughout the state now. The Highway Patrol, police departments, sheriff's departments — they all use the same things now."

Dorn said he has been working, married (two wives; the first passed away several years ago), and raising children most of his life (his youngest child is just 3 1/2 years old). So, when asked what he plans to do after he retires, Dorn mentioned "honey-do" projects, but said he plans to focus on a long-neglected hobby, woodworking, and indulge in some light farmer-type activities.

"I'm gonna raise some chickens, some hogs. I'm going to spend time with my son, take him fishing, things like that.

"My wife Mary Beth owns a house and some land up in the Kiln. Her aunt lives there, and some things need fixing up, so I'll be doing some of that."

After Dorn retires, Investigator James Varnell will take over as chief. He was sworn in as chief Wednesday at the Waveland board of alderman meeting, at which time Dorn was presented a plaque in recognition for his service to the city.

PRESCRIPTION FORGERY

Hancock County Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force Director Glenn Strong reported Wednesday the arrest of two Bay St. Louis residents on drug-related charges.

Strong said the task force arrested Phyllis G. Neal, 28, and Harvey J. Wehrwein, 38, both of 4078 Teal Street, Wednesday morning.

Neal was arrested at about 5:30 a.m., and Wehrwein was arrested at about 10 a.m. They were charged with two counts each of prescription forgery. One prescription was for Valium and the other was for Percodan.

Strong said both suspects are in the Hancock County jail under bonds of $4,000 each.

Task force agent and Waveland police officer Bill Pepperman is in charge of the investigation and is being assisted by Strong and agent Terry Eley of the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

Legislature convenes Jan. 7 to, as one modestly said, "impress on legislators" the urgency of having the funds restored.

Unquestionably, replacement of the $31 million now figures to be the most explosive issue to greet the new lawmakers when they arrive.

Fordice may well miscalculate, or misunderstand, the depth of the education forces he will face if he goes head-to-head with them at the outset of his administration over the fund restoration. This, even some Republican lawmakers concede, could very well make his honeymoon with the Legislature a very brief one.

"Certainly it was Gov. Mabus' commitment," said Rep.

Charlie Capps of Cleveland, the House Appropriations chairman, "but I believe everybody who ran for the Legislature this year made the same commitment."

Outgoing Sen. Jack Gordon of Okolona, who as Senate Appropriations chairman fashioned the legislation which permitted the one-year switch in funds from the school appropriation, said "at the time, I felt it would be my priority to restore the money." Now, said Gordon, who was defeated for reelection, "I am history."

Rep. Ken Stribling, a Republican from Jackson, said "A promise is a promise, and no matter how we get the money, I think we're going to come up with it."

Ex-POWs meet

A Christmas party was hosted at the Louis Guillory residence in Diamondhead for members of the Magnolia Chapter of American ex-POWs Saturday. Among those attending were, from left, James (Jim) Petty, commander, of Gulfport; Louis Guillory, senior vice-commander; Gail Whitlock of Biloxi; Ralph Hogan of Diamondhead and Metairie; and Lloyd J. Delahorne, adjutant and secretary, of Bay St. Louis. The Magnolia Chapter includes the three coastal counties. Other members include, Sid Hecker, Diamondhead; Joe Casano, Gulfport; Henry Kinny, Moss Point; and Glenn Wilson of Bay St. Louis. Former POWs interested in joining may contact Petty at 897-2005, or Guillory at 255-1185. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Christmas trees

Steeped in holiday tradition, your tree can be useful, too

BY H. RANDALL SMITH COUNTY AGENT

"O Christmas tree, O Christmas tree! How lovely are thy branches."

This favorite carol brings to mind visions of curious children anxiously awaiting Santa's arrival and nicely wrapped packages beneath a brilliantly adorned tree.

Yes, the tree has long been deemed a major part of Christmas decor. Standing as an object of wonderment for all innocent, bright-eyed children, the tree represents more than the mere exchange of gifts. In years of old, the tree originated as a symbol of Christ (the "Tree of Life") who brings to all His gifts of light, life and wisdom.

Many Christmas tree legends indeed span countless generations. One of German origin entails a woodsman and his family on a blistering, cold Christmas eve.

Prior to retiring for a long winter's night, a knock came to their door. It was a child, shivering from cold and hunger. The family gladly provided the child the best they had and a place of refuge.

Awakened in the early morning by a choir of angels, they beheld a transfigured Christ Child to whom they had kindly opened their home.

Removing a twig from a fir-tree, He planted it saying: "I have gladly received your gifts and here is mine to you; this tree will never fail to bear its fruit at Christmas and you shall always have abundance."

Well, I have reservations about a fir-tree bearing usable fruit, but I do find this wonderful story quite comforting. Other legends of similar religious merit exist as do legends involving the use of decorated trees to praise Christmas.

The art of decorating Christmas trees has evolved from using naturally flowering trees to adorning trees with artificial ornaments.

The latter is said to have originated in Germany when the great reformer, Martin Luther, became entranced on Christmas eve night with the beautiful starry sky. While gazing up, he thought of Him "Who for us men and for our salvation came down from heaven."

Returning home, he illuminated a tree with candles to represent the heavens that had sent the little Lord Jesus. This later prompted the decoration of fir trees with colored paper, apples, wafers, gold foil, sweets, etc.

Decorated Christmas trees slowly evolved, but by mid-nineteenth century became a permanent German tradition. The practice then spread to every part of European Christendom, across the Atlantic, and into America.

Christmas trees symbolizing the celebration of our Saviour's birth, is a wonderful practice, one I can not imagine being without.

TREE DISPOSAL

However, disposing of these expired trees is today posing difficulties for our overburdened landfills. Combating this problem is not difficult, but requires some creativity.

There are several ways expired Christmas trees are being reused or recycled: they can be used to attract and feed birds; they can be used in creating fish structures, marsh stabilization, and stream-bank erosion control (adhere to all county, state and federal laws and permits); and they can be chipped or shredded and used as mulch.

Using chipped or shredded Christmas trees as mulch not only conserves landfill space, but provides an affordable source of mulch, brightens landscapes, reduces weeds, reduces evaporation and keeps the soil warm during the winter and cool during the summer.

The bark can be easily dressed up with an additional layer of pine straw. It can also extend a limited amount of often expensive pine straw. Remember four shredded Christmas trees produce one peck of usable mulch as opposed to occupying 1-cubic yard of landfill.

You can serve as stewards of God's earth this holiday season and preserve generations of tradition by having your Christmas trees chipped into a nice organic mulch.

CHIPPING PROJECT
The chipping project, sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce (467-9048) in cooperation with Mississippi Power Company and Hancock County Cooperative Extension Service, will be conducted behind the Hancock County Civic Center, 3064 Longfellow Drive, Saturday, Jan. 4 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

If you miss this date, Bay St. Louis and Waveland will remove the trees as a part of their garbage pick-up. These trees will be chipped or shredded later.

Mike Cuevas, Bay St. Louis mayor's office, said the pick-up of Christmas trees in the Bay St. Louis area will continue Jan. 6-10.

Mulch generated from these projects will be used in county and city beautification projects. By the way, the information pertaining to the history of the Christmas tree was researched by the Bay St. Louis Library.

So until we meet again, this is H. Randall saying, "Think globally and act locally" and adopt the Hancock County cleanup and beautification committee's slogan "Litter Free By 93."

Gaudin, Johnston, Tartavouille earn 'Silver Snoopy'

Three Hancock County residents were among eight employees of NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center honored with the astronaut corps' own personal achievement award, the Silver Snoopy.

In ceremonies at Stennis, the Silver Snoopy awards were presented to Percy Gaudin of Kiln, Henry Johnston of Bay St. Louis, Karla Tartavouille of Waveland and the other four recipients by NASA astronaut Terry Wilcutt.

The award recognizes individuals for professionalism, dedication and outstanding support which greatly enhances flight safety and mission success in the Space Shuttle program.

In presenting the awards, Wilcutt, who works on Space Shuttle Main Engine (SSME) issues for the Operations Development Branch of the Astronaut Office, emphasized the importance of teamwork in a successful space program.

"The thing that impresses me most," Wilcutt said, "is that we don't really work for Rocketdyne or NASA or whatever; we all work for America's space program."

Gaudin, a field engineer for Johnson Controls World Services Inc., was recognized for his efforts in support of the SSME Test Program, especially his excellence in dealing with critical repairs to the test stands while meeting demanding completion deadlines.

Johnston, who is a member of the SSME Program's technical staff, works for the Rocketdyne Division of Rockwell International Corp. Designing a graphic system which resulted in significant time and expense reductions, Johnston has continuously maintained a level of superior performance, earning him this award.

Tartavouille, who also works for Rocketdyne, has shown dedication and team effort as a quality inspector. Her remarkably high standards for product quality and documentation accuracy were two of the many reasons cited for her receiving the award.

The Silver Snoopy Awards program was initiated over 20 years ago and represents the astronauts' own recognition of excellence. Each honoree received a silver pin flown on a shuttle mission, a letter of commendation and a certificate.

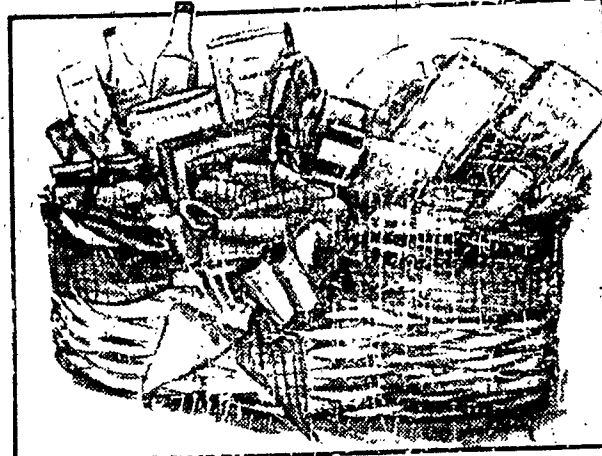

NASA adopted Snoopy, the popular Peanuts character, to serve as the "watchdog" for flight safety and to promote excellence in every phase of space flight to help ensure mission success. The emblem reflects NASA's and industry's sense of responsibility and continuing concern for flight safety.

Shabazz goes to Japan

BY TRACI BONNEY

Former St. Stanislaus sports standout Ya-Sin Shabazz, now playing for the Yale Elis, was one of eight Yale seniors picked to go to the Epson Ivy Bowl in Tokyo, Japan, this week.

His mother Shakira, a county employee, said Shabazz left Tuesday and will return next Tuesday.

During the trip, he will participate in cultural activities, practice sessions and the bowl game. The American all-star team, comprised of Ivy League college seniors, will vie with the Japanese all-star team.

"We were really excited for him when we heard about this," his mother commented.

Shabazz, a senior studying economics and political science at Yale, graduated from St. Stanislaus in 1988. He has played at Yale since his first year, starting in freshman football and moving to the varsity team in his second year. In his junior year, he received All-Ivy honors for his football skills.

CEHS boys win two, girls lose one; PCHS teams follow suit

BY TRACI BONNEY

In prep basketball action Friday, the Coast Episcopal and Pass Christian High School boys teams netted victories while the CEHS girls suffered defeat.

In girls' hoop action, Prentiss won 50-35 over the Lady Raiders. Raider Megan Uram led scoring for CEHS with 17 points and 12 rebounds, while Amy Dedeaux chipped in five assists, and Morey LeFevre collected six steals. The team's record stood at 4-10 following the loss.

Meanwhile, in boys' action both CEHS and PCHS left the playing arena victorious as CEHS defeated Prentiss 55-52 in a nail-biter and PCHS won 83-58 in Pass Christian over the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws.

In the CEHS/Prentiss game, Red Raider Joey Fore led scoring with 18 points, 12 rebounds and 10 steals. Teammate Dave Hagan threw in 13 points and six assists, and Chris Painter contributed 10 points, four steals and four assists.

The Pass Christian Pirates rolled over the Rocks behind the scoring of Keoki Laphand who tossed in 23 points, 14 rebounds and five steals. Fellow Pirate Jimmy Crawford chipped in 17 points and 11 rebounds, while Winfred Rials added 13 points and Burnell Dedeaux contributed 12.

Lead scorer for the Rock-A-Chaws was Mike Lee with 17 points and 14 rebounds.

On Saturday both boys teams again won, while the PCHS Lady Pirates met with defeat.

The Pirates smoked Sumrall 81-47. Winfred Rials blazed the trail with 23 points and two blocked shots. Other standouts included Burnell Dedeaux with 21 points, three 3-point goals, 11 rebounds, eight assists and seven steals; Keoki Laphand with 9 points, nine rebounds and three blocked shots; Carlos Malley, who tossed in one 3-point goal; and Stewart Watson with 9 points, eight assists and four steals.

The Pirates' record as of Saturday was 4-4 overall, 2-1 in Division 8 Class 2-A play.

Meanwhile, the CEHS Red Raiders thrashed Union Academy 62-26. Raider Dave

In the boys game, Issac Thomas netted 30 points, followed by Tracey Lee with 15, Kendall Mitchell with 14 and Darin Acker with 13.

Sportman's Club Christmas dance set for Dec. 21

The Gulf Coast Sportman's Club will hold its annual Christmas Dance Sat., Dec. 21, 9 p.m. until, at the Hancock County Civic Center, Longfellow Road.

Music will be provided by Danny & Bennie, and tickets are $20 a couple. Setups will be available.

Tickets can be purchased at Sam's Auto & Wrecker Service, Old Spanish Trail, Bay St. Louis, or at the door.

Sam Perniciaro, Jr., president said, some of the proceeds from the dance will be used toward the organization's annual Kids Fishing Rodeo scheduled for July, 1992.

Tigers top Purvis

The Bay High Tigers posted a win Friday night against Purvis, 76-62.

"We were trailing by three points after the first period of play because of poor shooting," said Coach Mark Collins. "In the second period, our defense got better, and we began to get better shots. By halftime, we were leading, 33-18."

Leading scorers for the Tigers were Tripp Whavers and James Rick tied with 19 points.

Bay Side Dept. to hold parade

The Bay Side Park Volunteer Fire Department will hold a Christmas parade, complete with Santa and fire trucks, Saturday at 3 p.m. in Bay Side Park.

The parade will start at V&L's, go down Hancock, around the clubhouse to the service road paralleling Hwy. 90, down the service road to Harbor Drive, down Harbor Drive and circle back to the service road, then go back to the fire station.

Other Tigers scoring were Tristian Robertson, 8; Travis Collins, 8; Brad Fredricks, 6; Shane Burch, 6; Danny Jackson, 6; and Adolfo Canelo, 4.

Standouts on defense were James Ricks, 13 rebounds; Brian Necaise, who had 9 rebounds; Tristian Robertson and Tripp Whavers, 7 rebounds each; Travis Collins, 7 assists and 6 steals.

The Tigers will take on Forrest County Agricultural High School Friday night at Bay High. The Tigers are 5-6 overall and 2-3 in conference play.

Mormons present Christmas cantata

The Waveland Ward choir of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will present their annual Christmas cantata, Fireside, Friday, Dec. 20 at 7 p.m. at the Waveland Ward Chapel on McLauren Street and Nicholson Avenue in Waveland.

This year a special presentation celebrating the birth of Jesus Christ through the choir's rendition of Christmas carols will be offered. Accompanying narration drawn from the scriptures will be read.

Following the cantata, everyone will be invited to join the choir in the singing of Christmas carols. Light refreshments will be served. There will also be a visit from Santa Claus. The public is invited.

The cantata will also be presented at 9 on Sunday morning, followed by a special Sunday school program. The public is welcome.
